Joseph Drouhin

2002 - A Great Vintage

WHITES: for most appellations, the bouquet is charming and the wines display good balance and gras (velvety texture). They can be drunk now but the Premier and Grand Cru wines deserve to be kept another 2 to 6 years.

REDS: intense in colour, dense and marvellously structured, these wines show beautiful fruity and secondary aromas. The wines have nicely evolved. It is better to wait until they are ready. The Premier Crus could be drunk 5 years from now.

Frédéric DROUHIN
October 15th 2003